

/ð/

L'articolo determinativo the ha una sola forma per il singolare e il plurale ed è invariabile nel genere e nel numero. Corrisponde agli articoli il, lo, la, l', i, gli e le in italiano.

Il ragazzo The boy

Le donne The women

La ragazza The girl

Lo studente The student

I libri The books

L'uomo The man

Gli studenti The students

Di solito in inglese si usa a quando si parla di qualcuno o qualcosa per la prima volta. Quando si nomina una persona, un animale o una cosa, si usa per la seconda volta the.

C'è un gatto in giardino. Il gatto è nero.

There is a cat in the garden. The cat is black.

It is

It's

The cat is

The book is

The window is

The pen is

They are _____ They're

The doors are
The books are
The windows are
The people are

Ci sono

There

are

La forma contratta

There is a cat. The cat is black.
There's a cat. The cat is black.

There are two cats. The cats are black.

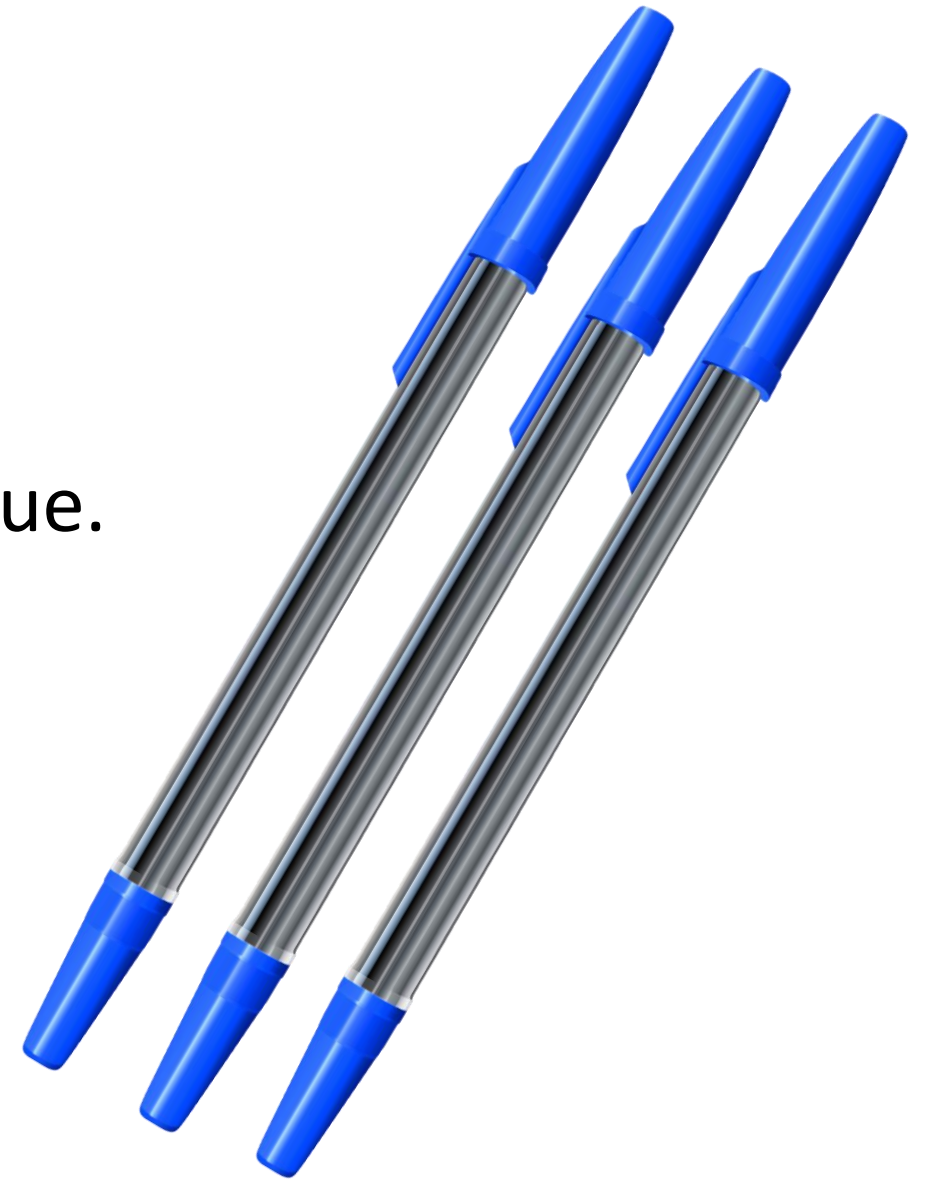

There is a pen. The pen is blue.

There's a pen. The pen is blue.

There are three pens. The pens are blue.

There is an umbrella. The umbrella is yellow.

There's an umbrella. The umbrella is yellow.

There are two umbrellas. The umbrellas are yellow.

There is a car. The car is green.

There's a car. The car is green.

There are two cars. The cars are green.

There is an apple. The apple is red.

There's an apple. The apple is red.

There are three apples. The apples are red.